Builders face lung dust hell

WORKERS in construction are being put at risk by breathing in tiny dust particles.

They could develop silicosis – a chronic lung disease caused by the inhalation of silica pieces when they cut stone.

The All Party Parliamentary Group for Respiratory Health yesterday warned about the "next asbestos".

Silicosis occurs when the body's immune system tries to remove the dust, with the lungs swelling and scarred.

Symptoms include a persistent cough and shortness of breath and there is no cure.

An estimated 600,000 workers are at risk.

£808k to MP staff in NDAs

HUNDREDS of thousands of pounds have been spent by the House of Commons on non-disclosure and settlement agreements with former employees over the last three years.

More than £808,000 has been spent on 15 departing staff members since January 2017.

And the House of Lords laid out £18,421 over the same period.

The figures, revealed in response to freedom of information requests, have led to calls for Parliament to outlaw the use of NDAs, sometimes referred to as "gagging clauses", in cases of harassment or discrimination.

UK Day 'nearer' to reality

THE creation of a bank holiday to celebrate Brexit has cleared its first parliamentary hurdle.

Tory backbencher Peter Bone has led calls for a United Kingdom Day in June to celebrate Brexit, the Union and the Queen.

His proposed bank holiday would fall on the Friday nearest to June 23, the date of the 2016 referendum, and could also mark the Queen's birthday and anniversary of her coronation, both of which fall in June.

Mr Bone said the Government had been "quite snifty" about his proposals.

LABOUR leader Jeremy Corbyn was booed as he presented a prize at the British Kebab Awards.

The vegetarian, the MP for Islington North, smiled despite receiving a mixed response at the London event.

He said: "My test of a kebab restaurant – because of predilection not to eat meat – is do they have good falafels?"

Flybe hit by coronavirus panic

TROUBLE: Airline

FLYBE was on the brink of collapse last night after the coronavirus crisis added to the budget airline's financial struggles.

The firm was thought to be waiting for the last scheduled flight to land yesterday before putting the business into administration.

It is expected to cease operating and a formal announcement is likely to be made today. The air-

by ROBIN COTTLE

line's struggles will put 2,000 jobs at risk after the carrier narrowly avoided going bust in January.

The firm has failed to receive a £100million loan it asked the Government for to keep operating.

It serves 170 destinations and is a major presence at UK airports.

One passenger reported staff being "in tears" on a Flybe flight last night. Rival Ryanair has predicted some European airlines will go bust as a result of coronavirus.

Carriers are cutting routes, freezing pay and using smaller aircraft.

Following reports of disruption to flights at Glasgow Airport last night, Flybe said there had been a "miscommunication" over refuelling of two services to Birmingham.

MAN UTD MARCUS TOLD OFF BY MUM

■ by JERRY LAWTON
MARCUS Rashford has bought his mum a house so he can play football inside his own mansion without getting told off.

The Manchester United and England striker admitted he has been shouted at by his mum Melanie for smashing "a few vases" during indoor kickabouts while she was living with him.

She recently moved out so the Old Trafford star can whack a ball around his £1.8million pad without risking a rollicking.

Marcus said: "My mum moved out so I don't get shouted at for playing in the house any more."

Asked by FourFourTwo magazine if he had broken anything he replied: "Yeah, there's been a few vases. You're going to get me in trouble here! But I think it's something we all do."

Bond film release is put back 7 months

by JAMES CAVEN and ANDREW JAMESON

JAMES Bond has been laid low by coronavirus, with his new movie put back to November.

Daniel Craig's final 007 flick No Time To Die had been due for release early next month as the UK saw its biggest daily increase in cases yesterday - up 36 to 87 confirmed infections.

One gutted fan said: "What a joke. Is every other film gonna be delayed now? Are all cinemas gonna shut? Ridiculous."

Bosses pushed back the film to November 12 amid fears the impact of the virus would leave people scared to visit cinemas.

Spreading

It has already been plagued by delays and will now come out more than five years after 007's last outing in Spectre.

Meanwhile Prince William made light of the coronavirus panic during his and wife Kate's visit to Ireland.

William, 37, told emergency workers: "I bet everyone's like, 'I've got coronavirus, I'm dying,' and you're like 'no, you've just got a cough'."

During a reception at Dublin's Guinness brewery he teased: "By the way, the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge are spreading coronavirus! Sorry!"

And on a visit to the London Transport Museum yesterday, the Duchess of Cornwall joked that she had gone into self-isolation when she stepped into an old air raid shelter.

Camilla's remark came shortly before Britain's top doctor warned that a large epidemic is now "likely" in Britain and people will die.

Chief medical officer Professor Chris Whitty said that for most people "this will be a mild or moderate disease, anything from a sniffle to having to go to bed for a few days, rather like with mild flu."

The Government's chief scientific adviser, Sir Patrick Vallance, said we'd be very lucky to get a coronavirus vaccine for general use within a year. But TREVOR Shore is talking sense.

★ HAND sanitiser sales have skyrocketed due to coronavirus – with stocks now running low across the UK.

There's been so much demand, pharmacy chains have started rationing bottles to two per person.

★ And some bottles, which usually cost around £1, are even being sold on eBay for up to 50 times the price.

But did you know you can easily make your own using ingredients found in most supermarkets and chemists?

★ Here NATASHA WYNARCZYK shows you how...

WHAT YOU NEED

A bottle of vodka
Tea tree essential oil
Lavender essential oil
Aloe vera gel
An empty 50ml travel spray bottle

Pictures: TIM MERRY

STEP ONE: Vodka, like most alcohol, is a natural disinfectant and has germ-killing powers.

It can even be used to keep equipment clean from infection-causing bacteria and viruses.

Pour this into a jug to form the base for your hand sanitiser... and you can even have a cheeky shot to calm your nerves if you're having corona-panic.

STEP TWO: Then add several drops of tea tree and lavender essential oils to the vodka.

Tea tree oil has anti-viral properties, and a 2013 study found it could prevent the spread of flu. And lavender oil smells good and acts as an antiseptic.

STEP THREE: Add aloe vera gel. This will stop your hands from drying out due to the alcohol and give the mixture a gel-like consistency.

Decant into an empty travel spray bottle, then shake well.

STEP FOUR: There you have it, a natural hand sanitiser to have on the go to use when needed.

While medics have advised washing your hands with soap and hot water for the length of time it takes to sing Happy Birthday twice, homemade hand sanitiser is the next best thing when supplies are running low.

TOP TIPS

★ If the smell of tea tree oil is too strong, try peppermint oil, which has anti-viral properties.

★ Lemongrass and orange essential oils can be added to give the mixture a fruitier scent.

★ A 5% solution of white vinegar can be used in a small spray bottle in your bag. It can kill germs by chemically changing proteins and fats in viruses and bacteria.

BARRYMORE 'IS PLAYING VICTIM'

TALK SHOW: Fallen telly star Barrymore on Good Morning Britain yesterday

MY SON STUART LUBBOCK WAS RAPED & MURDERED AT YOUR HOME MICHAEL BARRYMORE FACT

STRONG WORDS: Terry Lubbock and a message he posted online

Lubbock dad slam over TV interview

■ by ANDREW JAMESON
MOANING Michael Barrymore was accused of "playing the victim" in his first interview since a documentary about Stuart Lubbock's death.

The fallen star complained at length on Good Morning Britain yesterday about "pound-shop detectives" giving him "another kicking" after a Channel 4 investigation last month brought the case back into the public eye.

But Stuart's heartbroken dad Terry responded: "He played the victim. He was nearly putting on crocodile tears."

Accompanied by his lawyer, Barrymore, who has always maintained his innocence, appeared to be slurring his words during the appearance on GMB.

The 67-year-old said: "My fans are my mates, we've had this relationship for years. They know I'm not a wrong'un."

"[It's] through their support, [and] not all the pound-shop detectives that take a bit of this and a bit of that and oh, it's a celeb, let's give him another kicking."

"How many times am I supposed to be kicked?"

Stuart, 31, was found dead in the pool at the entertainer's home in Roydon, Essex, in March 2001.

His body was revealed to have several injuries that were consistent with rape.

Barrymore and two other men were later arrested over the death in 2007 but did not face charges.

Detectives are still convinced Stuart was murdered, as is his father Terry.

On GMB, Barrymore also denied suggestions party guests had purposely stayed silent. He said: "No I don't believe somebody knows. I can't speak for them, but I don't see how anybody could. I've never seen them since that day.

POOL DEATH: Stuart

"The wall of silence is because they don't know. I do believe that."

After the interview, Terry said: "I take my hat off to him for that performance. How can no one who was there not know what happened to my son?"

Barrymore's representatives were approached for comment last night.

LIGHTER SIDE: David Breaker today, left, and when he was 32st

■ by HENRY GOODWIN

A GAMING addict who ballooned to 32 stone and spent 14 hours a day on his computer is now a life coach after shedding 18 stone.

David Breaker became suicidal before turning his life around to help others.

His GP warned that his weight could kill him and following the transformation he now offers lifestyle and healthy eating courses to help people like him.

David, from Gillingham, Kent, used to wake up at midday before settling into marathon gaming sessions, causing his weight to balloon in the process.

He said: "I used to be a gaming addict. I would spend 14 hours a day playing World of Warcraft, and let myself get to 32 stone.

"I was quite suicidal about it and thought I had nowhere to go in my life.

"People will say their friends are gaming addicts if they play a couple of hours, but gaming addicts are people who are spending 60-80% of their day playing.

"Normal things like going to work or spending time with the family become

It was only when a doctor gave him a stark warning that David sought to change his unhealthy ways.

He said: "My GP basically told me if I carried on I'd be dead by 35.

"He said it would most likely be a heart attack and I needed to make a change."

The 36-year-old lost five stone through healthy eating and exercise before shedding the rest of the weight with the help of a gastric bypass.

Ulrika admitted she had to have a "couple of rum and cokes" to make her "feel better" and steady her nerves for their first date.

She said: "I was nervous about whether I'd even remember how to even kiss."

But after the first date went well, Ulrika decided she would have sex on their second meet-up.

SPOTTED: Saunders and Matthews

Monster Karen's pal 'seen lurking'

POLICE are guarding a school after monster mum Karen Matthews' paedophile lover was spotted loitering nearby.

Officers are patrolling outside at pick-up and drop-off times to reassure worried parents.

A shopkeeper warned a mum he had seen Matthews' fiancé Paul Saunders, 57, sitting in a van watching her and her children.

On Tuesday the headteacher of the school at the centre of the latest claims wrote to parents thanking them for contacting her with "recent concerns regarding a convicted paedophile in the local area".

She went on: "We have contacted the police with all information given to us."

"We have been advised there will be a local police presence at collection and drop-off times."

The letter was circulated on a community Facebook page available to locals.

One worried mum later uploaded a photo of Saunders, adding: "This is the man who this post is regarding. He has been sat around various points... especially the shops at the far end... in a white van."

"He has been there around school drop off and pick up and my friend has been personally warned by the local shopkeeper that he has been watching her and her children so it's not just hearsay."

Saunders was jailed for five years in 2010 for sexually abusing a girl aged between 15 and 17.

He was ordered to sign the Sex Offenders' Register for life but was given a community order for failing to comply with its requirements. The handyman got engaged to Matthews, 44 – jailed for kidnapping her daughter in 2008 to pocket a £50,000 reward – after working at her flat.

At the weekend it was revealed Saunders was under investigation after putting a camera in the flat window which could record passers-by.

Newspapers are not allowed to reveal the location of Matthews' flat in the south of England, but a neighbour said: "It scares the life out of me that he is living so close."

"What she did was horrible beyond belief but we felt it was done more through stupidity than anything else and she had served her time for it."

"But that's all changed since she moved him in."

The headteacher of the school involved declined to comment, but a local education authority spokesman said: "The safety of children is our primary concern."

Diefer's hope is a home

A SOCIABLE old dog has been waiting over a year for his forever home.

RSPCA staff are desperately trying to find a home for Diefer the terrier cross after his owner died.

The hound has now spent two Christmases at an animal centre where he has been for 437 days.

Staff worked hard to reassure Diefer, by spending time with him daily and introducing new ways to use his brain and enjoy life.

Hayley Crookes, of Sheffield Animal Centre, said: "We are heartbroken the lovely Diefer hasn't found his forever home."

"He has been so close but sadly it has fallen through when someone showed an interest in him."

"Once he is comfortable with you, he is an absolute diamond."

Diefer, nine, is suited to living in an adult-only home with no other pets.

TOUR: Cpl Birrell on patrol in Afghanistan

AMPUTEE SQUADDIE IS SAVED BY JOB & HIS NURSE

A SOLDIER who lost both legs after being blown up in Afghanistan has turned his life around by becoming a joiner.

David Birrell, 33, was caught in an IED blast 10 years ago in Sangin while on patrol.

Suffering from PTSD he was discharged in 2014 and considered suicide, believing he would never work or find love again.

But he has now found love with nurse Mary Parkinson, who helped him recover and is now his fiancée.

And he has started a new career - despite having no previous experience.

The former Black Watch corporal said: "The job has given me another life. It's given me purpose again."

"Before I got this job I was at rock bottom. After I left the army my marriage broke down and that pretty much destroyed me.

"Getting this job brought me back from the brink."

He said his lowest moment came in 2016 when he was sat in his car at a cliff-top car park where he contemplated driving it over the edge.

He said: "I was sat in my car and was going to drive off a cliff."

"I remember being sat thinking how I couldn't go on any more with the anger I was feeling."

"Then I thought of my kids and just couldn't do it."

Fortunately the dad-of-four, from Innerwick, East Lothian, met builder Ian Grant in 2017 at a race day - and Ian offered him a job with his firm, I Grant Contractors.

Despite his disability, David works for Ian full-time and his job has been the making of him. He said: "I completely respect Ian, he's like a big brother to me. He took my hand and led me in the right direction."

"When you're a double amputee you don't think you can do anything."

"It's like being a child again. You don't wake up and realise you're an amputee."

"It took me a year to realise I would never get my legs back."

Dark

Ian said: "He's extremely passionate about everything, he wears his heart on his sleeve and if he's not happy about something he'll be vocal."

"He says I've saved his life but I know he's been in dark places when we've worked with each other. I've been a shoulder for him when he's needed it."

"Whether I saved him or not, I don't know. He's a pleasure to work with 100%. He's one of the best we've got. He's the guy you want to be your mate, he's got your back and you want him with you on every job."

SNOWFLAKES ARE DOUBLE-DECKED

NORTHERN Britain will not get a glimpse of spring until at least late March but the south will be sunny, forecasters reckon.

Storms battered the whole country in February and more rain will pound already flooded areas in the coming weeks.

The Met Office forecast for mid-March said: "The period should continue unsettled, with wet and windy weather and potential for snow over higher ground in the north."

In contrast, Netweather's Ian Simpson said: "The last week of March is expected to see high pressure build from the south-west, bringing plenty of dry and sunny weather, especially to the south."

THE GOLDEN YEAR

Can you guess the year from these five clues?

1. England lose 6-3 to Hungary at Wembley.
2. Sir Edmund Hillary and Tenzing Norgay reach the summit of Mount Everest.
3. Famed for a steamy beach scene, From Here To Eternity is one of the year's top films.
4. Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin suffers a stroke and dies.
5. Elizabeth II is crowned queen of the United Kingdom at Westminster Abbey.

Tesco in cost cut

TESCO plans to match Aldi on hundreds of prices in a bid to win back customers.

The policy means that many of the supermarket's own-brand products will be available for the same cost as its German rival. Marked with a red Aldi Price Match sticker, the items - including bananas, cucumbers and white bread - can be purchased online as well as in store.

Alessandra Bellini, of Tesco, said: "This will help time-poor and budget-savvy customers get Tesco products at Aldi prices on the products that matter most to them."

We're on the lookout for really useful people to do some part time coach driving. A PCV license is essential, as is a Digital tachograph, valid Driver CPC qualification and a clean DBS check.

The position is for part-time ad-hoc work as and when our workload dictates based at our depot in Slough.

Keeping our vehicles looking awesome is important to us. This includes polishing exterior paintwork, painting tyres, vacuuming, sweeping and cleaning windows with a brush and squeegee and also making sure that our cabs and dashboards sparkle like a unicorn's horn.

The driving part is a doddle. We don't do stage carriage work so there's no hairy take-mommes-or-faces-to-school. We just do medium haul Private Hire, but for share of fuel replacement diagrams and not forgetting our very busy wedding special workload.

The rate of pay is an impressive £12.00 per hour from depot-to-depot and if you help us with emergency callouts, there's usually a £25.00 fee for house calls.

Bus boss Trev's ad enough

A BUS company boss has driven "snowflakes" round the bend with his latest job advert.

by JACK ANDREWS

Trevor Shore says he only wants people who love "politically incorrect banter" to work for him.

And he warned "millennials and social justice warriors" need not apply to join his team of part-time drivers.

Trevor, who won an MBE for his road safety work, said: "I really can't be doing with this PC world that we live in."

But his advert, which was written by his compliance officer and cousin Mark Self and posted on his firm Dekkabus's Facebook page, has already upset some killjoy youngsters.

Joker Mark, 44, said "a couple of 18-year-olds" have moaned that it was "inappropriate" but most people told him they love it.

Trevor, 62, told his critics to lighten up and have a bit of fun.

He added: "I'm old school. I've done quite a lot in my life - worked on the railways, buses and coaches."

"We used to have loads and loads of fun at work on the railways."

"The things we used to do and say you can't do now as you would get the sack or be disciplined."

He went on: "You watch Coronation Street and at the end it says, 'if you have been affected by this, please phone this number'."

"You might as well stay indoors, brick up your houses and not go out because if you go out the front door you might see something that upsets you and that might offend you.

"It's just got too much."

Colleague Mark said of the team at their family-run travel firm in Poole, Dorset: "We are in no way politically correct."

"We're just a fun company to work for."

"It doesn't seem that people have fun any more."

He went on: "We mentioned people needing to be able to put up with politically incorrect banter as it's a way of saying we need someone up for a laugh."

"We also need a good 'people person' who has the ability to talk to the road sweeper who effs and jeffs, and also to Mrs Jones from the fine arts society."

Boss Charli 'isn't like Si'

CHARLI XCX's group Nasty Cherry insist that she is nothing like Simon Cowell.

The girls insisted the pop star, who put them together, is more like their friend than their boss.

Ahead of a sold-out London show, bassist Georgia Somary told me: "She is more like a friend! We've all known her for so long so we're just mates, really.

"There's a lot of hangers, parties, dramas and shameful nights."

But Charli can crack the whip, with Georgia saying: "When we don't work we get told how hard we do need to work - because she is insanely hard working."

We'd Take That for a comeback

NIALL REUNION PLAN

ONE Direction are waiting until they look as good as Take That did in their 30s before getting the band back together.

Niall Horan has revealed they are using Gary Barlow and co's 2006 reunion as template for their own comeback.

Niall said: "When they came back they looked better than they ever did. If we all look that good, I'll take it."

Barlow was 33 when Take That returned with Patience and it's the quality of TT's songs that One Direction would like to replicate.

Niall continued: "To come back as great as they did - you know, it didn't look forced."

"I would hate for people to be like: 'Here they are coming for the money - because they've spent it all'."

"If and when we come back, it would be to bring the joy back to people who had missed us and the fact that we could break the internet with that selfie! I wanna do it when everyone is f---ing ready."

Niall reckons the only thing bigger than 1D getting back together is Friends reunion.

He explained: "When I saw that Instagram that Jennifer Aniston posted with the cast of Friends, it kind of reminded of 1D, because they're the only ones that get it. Maybe that's a strange analogy, but there are only five people who understand how it felt to be under that spotlight for so long and we actually had a very small core team around us. So we're basically brothers for life."

Niall is focusing on second solo LP Heartbreak Weather and was keen to write more upbeat songs. He told the Line Of Best Fit: "I kind of became known for a while as the guy with the sad songs and people were kind of expecting me to come out with another sad one. I wanted to change things up."

Out now are Niall's second Spotify Singles recordings - No Judgement and a cover of Taylor Swift's Lover.

THE BLUFFER'S GUIDE TO VIRUSES

with PAUL DONNELLEY

AS coronavirus spreads across the world, with more cases every day, here are some facts not to be sneezed at...

- ☐ The first virus was discovered in 1898 – the tobacco mosaic virus by Dutch scientist Martinus Beijerinck.
- ☐ Scientists have described about 5,000 virus species in detail since.
- ☐ The study of viruses is known as virology.
- ☐ The first images of viruses were made using an electron microscope in 1931 by the German engineers Ernst Ruska and Max Knoll.
- ☐ The Curse of the Spanish Lady – the flu epidemic that devastated Europe in 1918-1919 – caused 50million deaths.
- ☐ Aids was first recognised on June 5, 1981 and has since killed more than 25million. HIV was first isolated in 1983 and soon after confirmed as the cause of Aids.
- ☐ A third of Americans won't buy Corona beer "under any circumstances" because of the coronavirus, according to a survey.
- ☐ The first computer virus, "Creeping system", was released in 1971.
- ☐ The earliest documented use of bio-weapons was around 1500BC.
- ☐ The Army used smallpox as a biological weapon in the French and Indian War in June and July 1763.

10 WORST EPIDEMICS OF THE 21st CENTURY

- | | |
|--------------------------|-----------|
| 1. Worldwide flu | 2009 |

| 8. Worldwide coronavirus | 2020- |
| 9. India flu | 2014-2015 |
| 10. Middle East measles | 2012- |

- ☐ Chemical weapons were banned by the 1925 Geneva Protocol.
- ☐ During World War Two the Ministry of Supply began developing a biological weapons programme.
- ☐ In 1940, the Japanese Air Force dropped bombs full of plague-contaminated fleas on Ningpo in China.
- ☐ US President Franklin Roosevelt, below, was thought to be crippled by the poliovirus in 1921.

He did his best to hide his disability. In public he was careful never to be seen using his wheelchair.

A number of films have been made about outbreaks, including 12 Monkeys (1995), Outbreak (1995), Virus (1999), 28 Weeks Days (2002), Resident Evil (2002), 28 Weeks Later (2007), I Am Legend (2007), Quarantine (2008), Contagion (2011) and World War Z (2013).

A survey found that 49% of almost 30,000 respondents believe that "antibiotics kill viruses".

Catalyst of crime

MECHANICS are having to combat a spike in catalytic converter thefts by fitting £200 wire cages under cars.

The expensive parts, which clear harmful gases from the exhaust system, are made of rare metals palladium and rhodium.

There was a 600% rise in their thefts in the UK over the past year, according to insurer LV.

This is partly down to a rise in popularity of hybrid cars, which corrode catalytic converter metals less and are attractive targets.

Master strokes

POLICE are using a specially trained dog to help vulnerable people to give evidence.

Oliver, a three-year-old Labrador retriever, is the first in Europe in the role.

Det Insp Natasha Todd of Nottinghamshire Police said: "A lot of people, particularly children, don't want to talk to strangers about what's happened."

"Oliver makes them feel more comfortable in disclosing matters that they wouldn't ordinarily talk about."

Gem: I am here to end suffering

■ by ANTONY THROWER

GEMMA Collins reckons she is a "prophet" like Jesus Christ, who was put on Earth to ease people's pain.

And the reality star believes the fact she once suffered in life will help her help others.

Speaking on her podcast, the 39-year-old announced: "I honestly think I was put on the Earth to be some sort of prophet."

"It is something I will talk about in time."

"I have endured pain and suffering in my life, things haven't always been easy, I have suffered. And now I can help people in their lives."

The GC also claims to be a "bit of a witch" but doesn't dabble in cauldrons or spells.

She said: "I think I'm a witch because I'm very connected to nature. The difference between white witches and dark witches is that a white witch is very spiritual, into nature and can make magic happen. That is me."

"Dark witches focus on dark magic, black magic and all kinds of horrible things."

"I don't believe white witches have warts on them either, or pointy noses."

Bez 'Viagra' honey is the bee's knees

EXCLUSIVE ■ by JACK ANDREWS

HAPPY Mondays' Bez has been harvesting his own "Viagra-style" honey.

The Celebrity Big Brother winner, who is a professional beekeeper in his spare time, says the sweet nectar his hive produces has "unbelievable effects" on his libido.

Bez – real name Mark Berry – wants to set up a business selling tubs of the special sweet treat to rival the famous bedroom assistant on the global market.

The maraca-shaking dancer said: "The stuff I have got on some common land, that's like Viagra."

"It has an unbelievable effect on you."

"I got excited when I was doing our honey harvest."

And it seems keeping bees doesn't come without its dangers, after Bez revealed a swarm once stung his private area.

The 55-year-old added: "I left my fing fly open, didn't I?"

"They all got inside – there was a gang in there and then they attacked."

"There was some high-pitched squealing."

Jail pair in court

TWO inmates at a maximum security jail accused of attacking a prison officer with improvised blades while in fake suicide vests have appeared in court.

Brusthom Ziamani, 24, and Baz Macaulay Hockton, 26, are jointly accused of the attempted murder of Neil Trundle at HMP Whitemoor, Cambs, on January 9.

The prisoners were remanded into custody at Westminster Magistrates' Court yesterday.

Cat killer is caged

A MAN who killed a cat with a paving slab has been jailed for 12 weeks.

Carl Dyson, 40, wrapped his friend's pet in a blanket before dropping the block.

The cat was still moving after the incident, so Dyson did it again, Blackpool Magistrates heard.

RSPCA officers found the cat, which is said to have had cancer, with a "plethora" of head injuries.

Dyson, of Blackpool, had pleaded guilty to causing unnecessary suffering.

Tradesfolk miss sex for paperwork

■ by RICHARD JENKINS
ONE in five tradespeople is missing out on sex because of their admin workload.

A poll of tradesmen and women found that as well as brickies missing out on quickies, 44% spend less time in general with their partner.

And six in 10 of those polled – including electricians, plumbers and carpenters – have seen family time compromised due to an excess of paperwork.

A tenth of tradesfolk spend more than 10 hours a week just doing admin – longer than a full working day.

Ryan Notz of MyBuilder, which carried out the survey, said: "We know the best tradespeople care, so they often spend hours on paperwork after a long day on the tools."

Other areas of life to be ruined by admin overload include sleep (43%) exercise (29%), and diet (25%).

Station mystery

POLICE are hunting a gang of men armed with baseball bats after a teenage boy was found dead.

Ahmed Shamur, 16, of Manor Park, east London, was found with head injuries near Gallions Reach station around 8.30am on Tuesday.

Witnesses saw up to 30 men near the scene on Monday evening.

Det Chief Insp Larry Smith said: "We need anyone with information to tell us what they know."

H-appy hackers

HACKERS are increasingly using hidden apps to target mobile phone users.

Cybersecurity firm McAfee claims mobile malware attacks are common as dodgy apps disguise themselves as popular downloads to avoid detection and access data.

McAfee's Raj Samani said: "There's a trend for apps to remain hidden, stealing important data."

Hidden app attacks made up around 50% of malicious activity last year.

Tyson: I go after one-two RING KING TO QUIT

by JERRY LAWTON

TYSON Fury plans to win his bout with Anthony Joshua then sail off "into the sunset".

The WBC heavyweight champion said he only has two more fights left in him before he quits boxing.

First will be a re-match with Deontay Wilder then he will take on Joshua, 30, who holds the three other belts.

Tyson, 31, then plans to quit as the first fighter ever to retire as the undefeated holder of all four world titles.

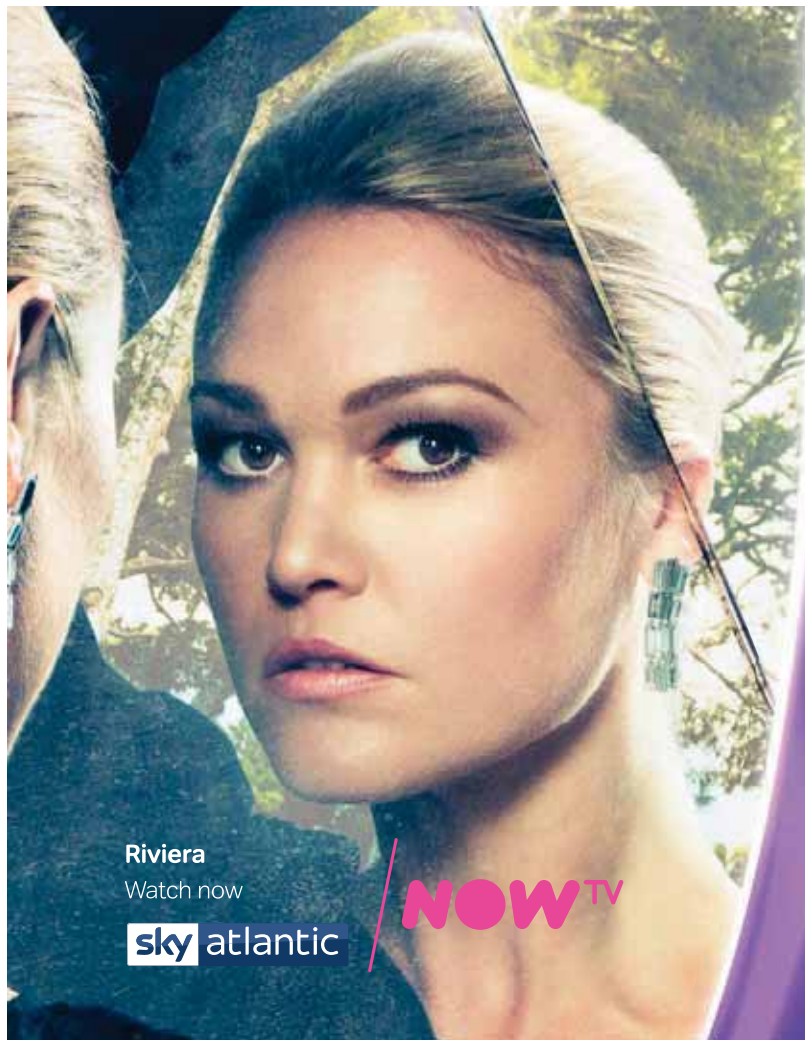

Fury yesterday told ITV This Morning: "I've got two more fights left. I've already been the undisputed heavyweight champion of the world."

"When I beat (Wladimir) Klitschko I had all the belts, so as far as I'm concerned Anthony Joshua just has my leftovers." Joshua will fight Bulgarian Kubrat Pulev, 38, in London on June 20.

Python on shore

A THREE-foot-long snake that had starved to death has been found on a beach, prompting an animal welfare inquiry.

The Scottish SPCA is appealing for information after the adult royal python was discovered by a passer-by in Musselburgh, East Lothian.

The charity's inspector Emma Phillips said: "A post-mortem showed it was emaciated and died due to malnutrition, so it was possibly dead before being discarded."

Drone a lifesaver

A DRONE which can be flown remotely from more than 100 miles away is being trialled in search and rescue operations.

The clever Camcopter S-100, which can fly at 150mph, is already being used across Europe.

It is hoped the £313,000 drone, currently being tested around Caernarfon, north Wales, will save thousands of lives.

Caernarfon Airport's Roy Steptoe said: "Without doubt unmanned aircraft are the way of the future."

The icon, 74, said: "I just wanted all of you to know that we are all with you and hope that your families are OK."

Star's hotel stunt nearly killed man

OZZY Osbourne says he was lucky to avoid prison when he nearly killed a man after throwing a TV from a hotel window.

The rocker and his guitarist Zakk Wylde hurled the set from a suite during a drunken session in Prague.

The ex-Black Sabbath singer says he hadn't realised a man was smoking below.

Ozzy said: "I am in The Four Seasons and I go to Zakk: 'I have never thrown a fing TV out of the window of a hotel room. Let's fing do it'."

"So I ripped the television off the wall, Zakk picked it up and threw it out of the fing window."

POOCH POWER: Dog lover Scarlett is getting behind the scenes at Crufts

FOR ALL YOUR CRUFTS NEWS: See paper and dailystar.co.uk

TODAY sees the return of the world's greatest dog show.

Back for its 129th year, Crufts is a one-of-a-kind celebration of our beloved pooches.

This year will see the launch of Crufts Extra, a brand new YouTube show hosted by Gogglebox star Scarlett Moffatt.

Set to be live streamed on Saturday and Sunday, you can watch all the behind the scenes action and find out fun facts about Crufts and the show's organiser, the Kennel Club.

Scarlett said: "I have watched

Crufts all my life and love dogs. I am really excited to speak to all the experts at Crufts who know so much about the different dog breeds and things you can do with your four-legged best friend.

"From the speedy weaving in agility to the top level training needed to be a heelwork to music champion.

"They say every dog has its day at Crufts and I can't wait to try and meet every single one of them!"

Crufts will be held from today til Sunday at the NEC Birmingham.

Book your visit at crufts.org.uk or follow the action on Channel 4.

PRODUCT OF THE WEEK

Canine Anti-Bacterial Hand Sanitising Foam - Aqueous
KEEPING hands clean is always important but when you have a dog it's crucial. Dogs are always getting our hands dirty, whether it be with a sloppy ball or picking up their poop. Ensure your hands are clean with this pocket-sized, hand-sanitising foam.

It is powerful and anti-bacterial, and great for those with sensitivities as it's non-irritant because it's alcohol and bleach free.

Available in a larger size too. Prices from £6.99 at www.aqueous.co.uk.

Women bowled over by big call

A BOWLING club has finally carried out a vote to allow women to become members for the first time in its 96-year history.

Female guests were not previously offered full membership and could only access the bar after 5pm Friday to Sunday as guests of male bowlers.

Out of 1,700 members, 506 took part in the vote, with 129 casting against and 377 for the proposal, which surpassed the two thirds majority needed.

The result means women can now apply to join Ilkley Bowling Club in West Yorks, from July 1 this year.

The vote was carried out at a general meeting when chairman Alan Breese told members it was "time to air the subject", seven years after it was last addressed.

Member Peter Mate posted on Facebook: "The club should be open to all."

"It's a good facility that needs to be brought into the present day."

Up to 15% of the active players at Ilkley are thought to be female.

Private members' clubs in the UK can set their own rules about who is eligible.

Rescue Ronnie's quids in AN ex-boxer who saved Princess Anne during a kidnap attempt sold his bravery gong for £50,000.

Ronnie Russell, 72, put the George Medal up for auction to "pay for his funeral". It had been listed at just £20,000.

Ronnie, from Bristol, intervened when a gunman tried to grab the then 24-year-old royal from her car on The Mall in London in March 1974.

He said after the sale: "I am absolutely blown away with this price and it gives me opportunities to do things that I never thought we could."

It marks the second year of profit growth after sales fell in a tough 2017.

Results showed a 3% rise in net profits to £970million on revenues 6% higher at £4.5bn. The group also cheered a 27% jump in online sales after it revamped its website.

Boss Niels Christiansen, 54, took the helm in 2017 and has helped steer the distributor back to growth.

He said: "It was a strong year where we outperformed the toy industry and grew consumer sales."

As well as revamping stores and its website, he oversaw last year's acquisition of BrickLink - the world's largest digital platform for adult fans.

The group, which has 570 stores globally, also launched Lego Hidden Side, which combines building sets with augmented reality.

Sales rose across all its markets, with single-digit growth in western Europe, including the UK, while China enjoyed "strong double-digit" growth.

Mr Christiansen added: "We are stepping up investment in all our retail channels."

Finding love ain't just Childs play!

YUMMY MUM:
Amy with daughter Polly, left; starring in Towie, above; alongside, Sam Faiers and Mark Wright, right; and with her former lover Bradley Wright, far right

CELEBS Go Dating star Amy Childs admits she turned the show to find love because she's fed up of attracting pingers.

The ex-Towie beauty, 29, reckons her estimated £3.1million fortune means men see her as a meal ticket.

On the show Amy has joked her dad thinks she meets all her men down the Job Centre - but it's not actuarial from the truth.

"I've definitely met guys who don't really have jobs," she says. "They see a really fit mum and they want to work."

"You could say I find just people."

A single mum of two, Amy gave her daughter Polly in April from the father, eight months on, Amy had a baby boy to man known only as also split shortly after.

Now ready to find love

by JULIE ANN TRAINOR

again and has joined other famous faces including Dean Gaffney and Alison Hammond in meeting non-celebs for the popular Celebs Go Dating show.

"I'm lucky I've got my two kids, and having children is the best thing ever, but I'm now ready to meet Mr Right," she says. "That's why I signed up to the show. I'm a fun character who definitely wants to meet Mr Right and I think my time is coming now."

Dizzy

"I'm single and a mum, and I want to show other mums you can have two kids but still have a dating life."

Despite her dizzy Essex girl persona, Amy is a lot more switched on than people might realise and has sensibly invested her money in property.

She says: "I think people have a perception of Essex girls but I've always been business-savvy and I've made a lot of money being business-savvy."

"My mum and dad gave me a great upbringing and I was privately educated from four to 16 years old. I went to a private school, and I was even the head girl there. I've got four houses in total, and I've just built a house in my mum's garden.

"So for me now it's all about buying property - it's all good."

"Now that I've got kids it's all about them and investing in their futures."

"I did so well from the show - Towie was amazing to me, and without it I wouldn't be here now." Despite her Wikipedia page saying she has four GCSEs, Amy's not sure how many she actually has.

"I think I've got quite a few GCSEs," she says. "I'm not sure how many exactly."

"I left school when I was 16, and I did beauty and then all of a sudden I was asked to do Towie. It was too big an opportunity to turn down and I ended up making a name for myself."

After leaving Towie in 2011, Amy had her own reality show before landing spots in Celebrity Big Brother and The Jump.

As she found fame she admits to getting "addicted" to plastic surgery, having a boob job and "constant" lip fillers. Amy has since ditched such cosmetic procedures. While admitting she always thought she'd be married by the age of 30, with two young kids under her belt, Amy is in no hurry for more.

"I'd never say never, but at the minute I've got two under three and it's the hardest thing ever," she says. "Luckily my mum and dad are amazing. I could meet my future husband and he might want children, or he could already have his own, but that at this moment in time I don't want any more because it's hard."

Reunion

On Celebs Go Dating, Amy's romance with Brighton lad Matt is going well but she teases that viewers will have to wait to discover if true love blossoms.

There have also been rumours of a Towie reunion with all the original cast - including Mark Wright, James 'Arg' Argent and Sam Faiers.

While Amy does not know whether it will go ahead, she would be up for making a return.

She says: "I think it would be a great thing if they did do it."

"It would be amazing to have all the original cast back together."

WE SHALL NEVER SURRENDER

THE DARKEST OF DAYS

On 10 May 1940, a terrifying dark shadow swept across Europe, enveloping France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. Britain itself came within range of the mighty German war machine and a veil of fear descended on the nation. Europe echoed to the sound of German jackboots and the world as we know it suddenly became a much darker place. However, when the country as a whole faced the darkest of days, the man destined to inspire a nation stepped up to become Britain's Prime Minister. That man's name was Winston Leonard Spencer-Churchill.

NEW ISSUE FOR 2020

2020 represents the 80th anniversary of that momentous year, and in recognition of Churchill's extraordinary contribution to our country, we are proud to present a wonderful tribute, a 22-carat, solid Gold Quarter Sovereign. The obverse of this beautiful coin features the portrait of Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II by Raphael Maklouf while the reverse depicts Winston Churchill smoking a cigar and displaying his famous 'V for Victory' gesture. The whole image is encircled with his famous phrase, 'We Shall Never Surrender.'

NOUGHTS + CROSSES:
BBC One, 9pm

Andy Lea's telly movies

MY FRIEND DAHMER ★★★ (2017) Film4, 9pm Premiere. The formative years of Ohio serial killer Jeffrey Dahmer are charted in this disturbing drama inspired by school pal Derf Backderf's graphic novel. On the surface, Dahmer (an excellent Ross Lynch) is a typical awkward teenager. But behind the mop of hair and giant glasses, something strange begins to stir.

BAD TEACHER ★★★ (2011) 5STAR, 10.15pm "I went into teaching for all the right reasons," says Cameron Diaz. "You know, the long summer holidays, the lack of accountability..." Diaz turns the inspirational teacher movie on its head in a raucous comedy about a hard-drinking, kid-hating teacher who tries to seduce a wealthy, straight-laced colleague (Justin Timberlake).

★★★★★ Don't miss it ★★★★★ Good
 ★★★ Average ★★ Time filler ★ Garbage

HotTV CHOICE

with Mike Ward

New to BBC One tonight is NOUGHTS + CROSSES (9pm), a drama set in an alternative world where dark-skinned people are the ruling class, fair-skinned people are the underclass and, you cross that line at your peril.

Crossing that line at their peril, or clearly about to, are soon-to-be-love-struck teenagers Callum (Jack Rowan) and Sephy (Masali Baduza).

Sephy is the daughter of the Home Secretary (played by Paterson Joseph). Callum is the son of the Home Secretary's housekeeper (Helen Baxendale).

And while they've known each other since they were kids, it's now that they look set to find a real connection. A real and mighty risky one, that is.

The full six-part series, adapted from Malorie Blackman's award-winning novels for young adults, will be available straight afterwards on the BBC iPlayer. Elsewhere, Clare Balding brings us three shows from the opening day of this year's CRUFTS (3pm, 8pm, Channel 4; 6.30pm, More4), including the first bits of drama from the brilliantly bonkers relay they call Flyball.

Over on ITV, meanwhile, Griff Rhys Jones becomes the latest comic to do the train-based travelogue thing with GRIFF'S GREAT AUSTRALIAN RAIL TRIP (8.30pm). On the first leg, Perth to Kalgoorlie, he adds to his vast general knowledge by finding out what a sandroper is. And if you don't mind staying up beyond your bedtime, WOMEN'S FOOTBALL: SHE BELIEVES CUP (11.40pm, BBC Two) has live coverage from Florida of the opening match between this four-nation tournament's US hosts and Phil Neville's England.

WAS £69.99

Brighten up your home with this contemporary daylight lamp, which can be used as a floor lamp or desk lamp. The flicker-free light helps reduce eyestrain, making it the perfect light for reading or long periods of studying.

With a clearer, brighter light, it's great for hobbies such as needlework, model-making and painting, helping colours appear more true to life and improving contrast. The lamp has several great features and there are three different modes, a daylight white light (6000K), a soft orange light (3000K) and a darker orange light (4500K).

Each light mode has five brightness levels. The flexible gooseneck design allows you to position the light exactly where you need it. Base diameter: 20cm. Height: 74-166cm.

Be prepared in any roadside emergency with this 12V digital air compressor from Auto Technik. This high capacity air compressor has a specially designed high-speed pump which inflates all tyres, sports and camping equipment, inflatable mattresses, beach toys and other inflatables to the correct pressure automatically. Simply connect to the 12V DC cigarette lighter in your car, pre-set the correct pressure on the back-lit LCD display and it will inflate in half the time of many standard compressors, automatically stopping when the correct pressure is reached. Choose from PSI, BAR and KPA readings on the digital pressure gauge.

QUITTING: Bradley Walsh

It's time for the PC Doctor to take off

So Bradley Walsh and Tosin Cole are quitting Dr Who. Rats and sinking ship comes to mind. LEO F

OMG!! Please, let's just write-off all the recent "Dr Who" garbage! Just axe the show, now. It's been 15 years since it was brought back; time for a TV rest! Maybe, at long last, a proper Hollywood movie? with Michael Sheen playing the Doctor, with Isla Fisher as the companion; plus Daleks and Davros, please! Sid N well said sir Derek Jacobi coronation Street has lost the touch along with Emmerdale. Far too "PC"! Paul Lances

Wise Ged have u ever tried ice-skating? Perri is not a pro and has had 2 learn like everyone else. He's by far the best skater on Dancing On Ice then Joe. Let's leave sentiment out of it please. GINNY P

Don't charge police over terror crash

So two armed officers in London suspended after car crash on way to terrorist incident. It's a disgrace these personel putting lives on line and treated like this, drive at 30mph see what's said when more people have been killed by a terrorist. Stockton jeff

No wonder there is a shortage of police officers. They can't do right for doing wrong. Leave the police alone! EBG

Who on earth is the prat who is investigating the two officers, he or she must be sacked immediately for the sake of common sense. Idiots like these should not be in a job with responsibility. Bri

Leave the terror crash police alone, members of the public cause far worse accidents every day and for much less reason! Anon

No wonder all these Millennial snowflakes are so thick, they've got role models like Joey Essex and Gemma Collins to look up to! JRo younger getting confused about WW2: that's because all they hear about it are their boomer grandparents (who did NOT live through WW2) banging on about it and ranting about Brexit and the French! Education begins at home!! Den

The ignorance of some millennials regarding WW1 and WW2 is shocking. These are probably the same morons who think that the Poppy glorifies war. Maybe if they went to school instead of going to see Greta Tree-hugger they might learn something. Dave P, Stockport

The Anti Greta Thunberg kid Naomi Seibt is blaming Greta for causing panic! Britain is under water, Australia is burning, The Victoria Falls is a dry cliff and so on but Greta apparently doesn't know anything about economics, what's economics got to do with it? Bry Anglesey

FINAL Fantasy 7 Remake is out next month but Sony is giving PS4 fans a taste of the action early. It's just dropped a free new demo available now.

A boost for buffs

MORE of us are about to get a ludicrously fast broadband boost.

Virgin Media has just announced that its ridiculous 1Gbps service is arriving in a million extra homes.

It will offer the chance to download a movie in a matter of seconds.

This latest rollout is taking place in the West Midlands which now follows areas such as Reading, Southampton and Greater Manchester.

Those lucky enough to have this broadband beamed into their living rooms will see speeds up to 20 times faster than the regional average.

In real terms, it means you should be able to download a full HD movie in around 34 seconds, rather than the usual 12 minutes at current speeds.

DILLY-DALLY AND YOU'LL LOSE IT

IF you love physics-based fun and crash test dummies then the ideal game has arrived on Nintendo's Switch.

You're tasked with firing your dummy Dilly out of a catapult, trying to then navigate him, as he falls across ever bigger obstacle courses.

Each one finishes when you successfully smash his head through a billboard. It's as bonkers as it sounds and REVIEW - The Adventures of 00 Dilly it's addictive. The obstacle courses get incredibly hard and with the addition of bears throwing wrenches at you, it can get quite difficult, too.

Yes it's odd, and leaves a smile on the face.

But it is also limited and only really worth it if you've got a spare £13.50 floating around.

Verdict 3/5

Better pictures than real life!

★ WHATSAPP users rejoice! The chat app has finally got a dark mode which will not only make it easier on your eyes but also save a bit of your battery life. The update is available now on iPhone and Android.

★ NO, it's not a new Apple Watch. This tech timepiece is being launched by Oppo tomorrow and it could finally give Android fans an Apple alternative.

The Chinese firm is also expected to reveal its new Find X2 phone, which may feature one of the best screens ever.

Full details coming in next week's StarTech.

IF you thought your new 4K telly was good, wait until you see what's coming next.

Samsung and BT Sport have shown off the future of TV with the first live 8K broadcast which took place at the Emirates Stadium.

StarTech was lucky enough to witness this eye-popping event which offers fans the chance to watch the on-field action at four times the resolution of 4K.

That means what you're watching on the big screen looks better than actually sitting in the stadium.

The groundbreaking test took place during Arsenal's defeat to Olympiacos last Thursday with the pixel-packed content sent from the pitch straight to one of Samsung's latest QLED TVs.

Making this happen was no mean feat as 8K requires some serious technology including new broadcast cameras, which cost in excess of £400,000, and huge bandwidth to beam this memory-hungry content across the network.

There's no word yet on when this service will land in UK living rooms but it may not be as far away as you think. BT Sport is hoping that customers will be able to tune in to 8K content from next year via its Ultimate Live service, with some rumours even suggesting this year's Champions League final will get an 8K makeover.

But before you get too excited, there are a few things you'll need to buy. Obviously an 8K TV is imperative but a good broadband signal will be important.

BT says that its footage will be beamed to these new TVs via the web and it's likely that it will need speeds of around 80Mbps to make it worth watching.

Anything under that could end up with that annoying ball-stopping buffering.

Discussing the update Jamie Hindhaugh, chief operating officer at BT Sport, said: "Today's broadcast in partnership with Samsung continues BT's mission to take our viewers to the heart of sport and serve them the ultimate viewing experience."

Last week's test was an historic moment for 8K and expect more news on this ultimate content in the coming months.

CRASH SAFETY TWEAK

GOOGLE Pixel owners have just been treated to a lifesaving upgrade.

This device now gets Google's clever Car Crash Detection which can work out when you've been involved in a traffic collision using the sensors built into the handset. It then automatically calls emergency services.

This upgrade will soon be available so keep checking your settings.

JUST JANE

JANE O'GORMAN SOLVES
YOUR PROBLEMS TODAY
... AND EVERY DAY

I had to care for her kids

A GOOD friend recently dumped on me from a great height.

She invited me to stay at her house for a fortnight and then flew to Tenerife with her new boyfriend.

I was left caring for her three children.

The kids were lovely but missed their mum.

Admittedly the eldest is my god-daughter but my friend had left no money and little food.

The first big shop alone cost me £85 and I calculate I'm now owed £350. The only text I received from her said: "You don't mind, do you, Babe?"

I know she's loved up, but how dare she?

JANE SAYS: Your friend might be madly in lust, but leaving you to care for her children was a calculated stunt.

She knew you wouldn't abandon them or let them down and now you find yourself seriously out of pocket.

Sit her down and read her the riot act.

Can she promise that she'll never do anything like that again, or do you need to speak to her family members or social services?

Her children have to be kept safe on a full-time basis and she needs to sober up. She's very lucky that you're such a decent person.

Violent rich fella is secret abuser

ALL NICE ON THE OUTSIDE

MY boyfriend is rich and posh but he hits me.

I only have to say the wrong thing or give him a quizzical look and he lashes out.

To the outside world he's a fine upstanding man.

He works for a well-known corporation and takes part in sporting events for charity.

Every few months his boss takes his top people, plus partners, out for dinner and my boyfriend is lauded for being talented and decent.

He makes a point of putting his arm round me and saying something crass like: "Don't thank me, it's all down to the little lady."

Terror

But no-one knows what he is really like. During the day he bombards me with texts - telling me once again that I am useless, lazy and stupid.

As soon as we get home he starts picking on my opinions.

He does all the cooking and tidying up because he doesn't trust me to do things properly.

Consequently I live in a state of terror. I tiptoe around terrified of making a mess. I have to praise every meal with each mouthful and then allow him any kind of sex by way of thanks.

During sex I am regularly

Picture posed by models

HE BLAMES ME: Bullying boyfriend claims my clumsiness drives him to launch his attacks slapped and pinched. I don't like it but dare not complain. I do acknowledge the fact that he had a difficult upbringing with his demanding father, but don't see why I'm the punch bag.

More often than not he blames me for the abuse.

He says I drive him to distraction with my clumsiness. Just hearing his booming, plummy voice coming through the door is enough to turn my legs to jelly. What have I done to deserve this?

JANE SAYS: Your boyfriend may have a high opinion of himself but he's nothing but a thug and a bully. Domestic abusers come in all shapes and sizes and just because he considers himself posh is irrelevant.

Your life is in danger and you have to get away from him. In the UK, two women a week are killed by a current or former partner.

You really have to save and protect yourself before you become yet another tragic casualty of domestic abuse.

He may occasionally bleat that he will change and you will enjoy a happier future together, but it's too late for any of that.

Speak to people you trust;

plan your escape and then expose him. I suspect many of those around you are already worried.

People have eyes and ears and are more perceptive than you might realise.

Your colleagues at work must see your terrified face each time another poisonous text drops.

Check out The National Domestic Violence Helpline 0808 2000 247 and plan the future you deserve.

Also, never hesitate to call 999 if you ever feel you're in immediate danger.

This all has to end here.

Sofa so good... for £30

SIX months ago I hurt my back. A mum at my son's school said her masseur husband could help.

Since then I've been visiting his massage parlour for relief and what we actually do is have sex on the sofa.

We spend a frantic hour groping and groaning and then I go home. But not before I've paid him £30 for the privilege.

He says he feels terrible about charging me, but his wife does his books and she'd smell a rat if it were short. How have I ended up in such a mess?

JANE SAYS: Break this unhealthy habit.

If this man is attempting to establish a professional practice, then he's got a strange business head on him. Don't feel guilty about taking your £30 elsewhere because you owe him nothing.

Organise a sexual health check. I'd be wary of making an enemy in that hotbed of cliques, also known as the school playground.

However, if you feel you've been coerced, then do you need to speak to a solicitor or the police?

Sulky in-laws just blank me

MY in-laws simply don't speak to me. We visit every Saturday and they chat to my husband, but ignore me.

I make myself a cup of tea and read the paper. I don't know what I've done wrong to deserve this treatment and neither does he. How dare they?

JANE SAYS: You've got to have this out with them. What has changed? What have you done wrong? If they won't give an honest answer, then is there any point in you visiting in future?

Surely life is too short for a long-term sulk? Of course, you must apologise if you've genuinely upset them, but nothing gives them the right to simply ignore you for no good reason.

LATE ENTRY: Cilaos Emery has been supplemented for the Champion Hurdle

WILLIE MULLINS yesterday added Cilaos Emery to "such an open" Unibet Champion Hurdle - but star mare Benie Des Dieux will not be running in Cheltenham's Tuesday feature.

Cilaos Emery, three times a winner over fences this season - before a first-fence fall at Leopardstown's Dublin Racing Festival - is a 6-1 shot for the two-mile test after making a successful return to timber with a nine-and-a-half-length margin in the Red Mills Trial Hurdle at Gowran Park last month.

And Mullins admitted it was the lack of a stand-out Champion Hurdle contender that persuaded owner Luke McMahon to stump up the £22,500 supplementary fee.

"It's totally because it's such an open Champion Hurdle," said Mullins. "He should be improving - we've schooled him and he's schooled well - and he's had a short hurdles career.

What he did coming down the hill at Gowran and putting the race to bed was good enough for me and Luke."

But Mullins hasn't ruled out a return to chasing with the eight-year-old, adding: "He can mix it and I'm not afraid to mix it with horses if they show the inclination to do it."

Rab Havlin reached the

1,000-winner milestone when Pitcher's Point, trained by the Scot's boss John Gosden, landed the Ladbrokes Where The National Plays Novice Stakes.

"The second half of my career has been better than the first - and I've got John Gosden to thank for that," said Havlin.

"He has been an unbelievable friend and supporter of mine."

■ TOMORROW'S Grand Military Gold Cup card at Sandown Park was hanging on an inspection at 8am today.

BEST BETS

from Racing Editor JASON HEAVEY

A 7lb penalty for a four-and-a-half length win last week should not prevent DR OAKLEY (3.00, nap) recording a quickfire double in the handicap hurdle at Wincanton this afternoon.

Henry Oliver's six-year-old timed his run beautifully when seeing off Lily The Pink over an extended 2m5f and he was also going well in his other run this year before unseating James Davies at Huntingdon in a race won by Imperial Elysian.

So he looks very good value for another success.

In the last race at the Somerset course, BOBHOPEORNOHOPE (5.20, treble) can land the Maiden Open NH

Flat Race for the yard of Kim Bailey (below).

He was a soft ground point-to-point winner at Dromahane in April last year.

His first run under rules in January saw him finish a promising three-and-a-half lengths third behind Tile Tapper in a bumper at Exeter and he is expected to kick on from there.

Meanwhile over the fences at Carlisle, REAL ARMANI (4.00, nb) looks a classy contestant in the handicap chase.

After a modest hurdling career, his first run over fences yielded a good second at this track last month and he's entitled to build on that despite a drop in distance.

HANDICAP BLOT

MUKHA MAGIC (4.50 Southwell) came with a steady run to beat the odds-on Brooklyn Bay over course and distance last Wednesday when new headgear seemed to do the trick. A 5lb penalty for that success is negated by the allowance claimed by the promising George Rooke.

MAN IN A HURRY: Konrad Hurrell on the charge against Warrington last Friday

Leeds hero Hurrell

making all the right moves

LEEDS star Konrad Hurrell has vowed to keep dancing and high-fiving his way through Super League.

The Tonga star has become a firm favourite with Rhinos fans and performed an impromptu boogie live on Sky Sports after his side's demolition of Warrington last week.

Then he pretended to play a trumpet as the South Stand band played the city's 'Marching on Together' anthem, before doing a high-five lap of honour.

It's moments like those that have made Hurrell a Headingley hero – plus performances like Friday's, when he made 194m, two clean breaks and didn't miss a tackle.

He intends to continue having fun while Leeds look to maintain their revival under coach Richard Agar.

Hurrell said: "There's a lot of young kids that want to be in my profession so I want to make the most of it while I'm doing what I love to do."

"I love the energy that the Leeds fans bring to the game. They come out and support us no matter what the weather and I just want to give something back to them."

"They kept turning up last year when it must have been tough for them to watch, and that's something special – you want to give a bit extra for that."

"The dancing on Sky put me on the spot a bit but I thought I'd got to do it, and it was pretty good I reckon."

The Rhinos have chalked up three straight wins since their opening weekend defeat by Hull FC ahead of tonight's visit of winless Toronto.

But Hurrell is keen to ensure they don't underestimate their opponents, coached by former Leeds boss Brian McDermott.

Hurrell added: "They haven't had any wins but it looks like they're getting better and better. They nearly beat Warrington two weeks ago so you're never quite sure what they're going to throw up."

"They've got some players that are hard to stop including big Sonny Bill, who will be on my side."

"He's the top offloader in the comp already and that's a big part of his game so we'll need to keep an eye on him."

"Their spine is pretty good as well and when they're on it, they will be tough to beat."

"We're heading in the right direction now – we just need to keep believing in what we're doing and work hard."

"Last year when Rich came in, what he was saying to the players started to work towards the end."

"This year everybody is buying into it from the start and it's working for us."

BRAVE LEACH FEARED FOR LIFE

JACK LEACH was so ill he thought he was going to die during the recent tour of New Zealand.

The England spinner fought sepsis in hospital last November after playing in the first Test.

Leach (right) suffers from Crohn's disease which affects his immune system so when gastroenteritis gave way to sepsis, a type of blood poisoning, his life was in danger.

"I didn't know how serious it could be," said the 28-year-old.

"But I remember feeling very, very ill. I remember thinking, 'Don't fall asleep because you might not wake up'. That's when they called an ambulance and got me to hospital."

"Once I got there and got on to a drip, I started to feel better quite quickly but it still took a couple of nights in hospital and I was probably still recovering when I flew back from New Zealand. It took longer to get over than I thought."

Leach's winter of discontent continued into South Africa where he was one of the hardest hit by a couple of different viruses which affected the squad.

That's why he feels almost relieved to be in Sri Lanka. "I picked up a couple of things out in South Africa and my body couldn't cope," he said.

"Other people got ill but I struggled to fight it off as well as a healthy person."

"The medication I'm on for Crohn's weakens my immune system, so it is a bit more of a struggle."

A calf niggle looks like keeping Leach off the field until the second warm-up match next Thursday but he is expected to play a full part in both Tests.

ITOJE'S BIGGAR TARGET

Maro aims to slam Dan

MARO ITOJE has warned wounded Welsh ace Dan Biggar there will be no mercy if he plays on Saturday.

Wales playmaker Biggar suffered a knee injury that forced him off playing for Northampton last weekend.

Dragons officials are hopeful he will be fit to take the No.10 shirt despite not being able to train fully this week.

But Itoje has made it clear the fly-half will be ruthlessly targeted if he is fit for the Six Nations clash at Twickenham.

"Dan is a very good player and a big player for Wales. Every No.10 is an influential player in their respective team so we know that we are going to have to go after him and try to stop him playing his best game," said Itoje.

"If he's passed the necessary test to play you assume that he is good to go."

Biggar was Wales' hero at Twickenham five years ago when his immaculate goalkicking helped knock England out of the World Cup.

But after an aggressive defensive performance against Ireland a fortnight ago which knocked Andy Farrell's side out of their stride, England are planning more of the same for Wales.

And Itoje, who has made 50 tackles in the tournament so far – eight of which have forced turnovers – will be the man to lead it.

George North has been passed fit following his sixth concussion, suffered

■ by NEIL SQUIRES

11 minutes into Wales' loss to France last time out.

This will be the 14th time he has faced England but it is missing out on a World Cup final date with the old enemy in Japan last year that has him fired-up now.

North has drawn on the wounding memory of Yokohama four months ago, where a 76th-minute penalty by eventual winners South Africa ended his World Cup dream at the semi-final stage.

"We missed out on one step," said North. "And it will forever kick me in the shin every time I think about it."

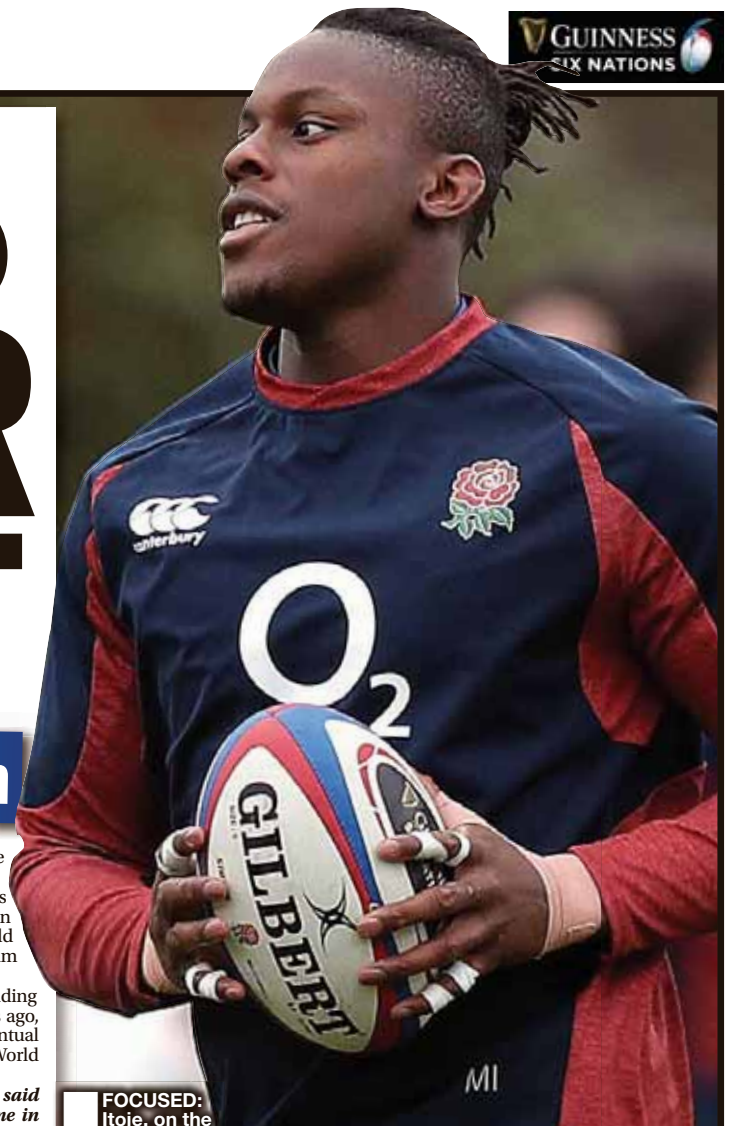

"We put heart and soul into it, gave everything physically and emotionally. It takes a while to get over that. Actually, I don't think you ever really do."

"You always carry that hurt as fuel. It's what gets you up in the morning...to put things right."

England lockout

From Back Page had expected 20,000 fans to travel to Rome but they are no longer allowed. That includes players' families.

Three days ago the Six Nations agreed the rest of the tournament's matches – with the exception of Saturday's game between Ireland and Italy in Dublin, which had already been postponed – would go ahead as planned.

But the deteriorating situation led to last night's announcement. Italy has been the worst-hit country in Europe with the death toll from coronavirus passing 100 yesterday.

Broadcasters ITV had already told their commentary team not to attend the game and cover the game from their London studio

"I am sure the boys are trying to work out their plans accordingly," said prop Joe Marler.

RAGE AT FERRARI DEAL

SEVEN of the 10 F1 teams have expressed their "surprise and shock" at the ruling body's private deal with Ferrari, following an investigation into the team's 2019 engine.

Rival teams raised concerns last season about Ferrari's big straight-line speed advantage.

Last week, F1's governing body, the FIA, announced they had "reached a settlement" with the Italian outfit after long-running technical investigations.

But the details were kept private and the teams have questioned the FIA's integrity, demanding "proper disclosure".

Mercedes, Red Bull, McLaren, Renault, Racing Point, Alpha Tauri and Williams – the seven teams not

■ by MATT MALTBY

powered by Ferrari engines – released identical statements yesterday.

They said: "We were surprised and shocked by the FIA's statement."

"An international sporting regulator has the responsibility to act with the highest standards of governance, integrity and transparency."

"We strongly object to the FIA reaching a confidential settlement agreement with Ferrari."

"We hereby state publicly our shared commitment to pursue full and proper disclosure in this matter, to ensure that our sport treats all competitors fairly and equally."

AJ v FURY AT THE DOUBLE

From Back Page have also said we're willing to do the deal and sign the deal now for December, obviously subject to AJ winning and Fury winning.

"We would also do the same for Wilder if he wins the rematch."

"We would be happy to do a deal with either guy to say we would be happy to do that fight in December."

"It's difficult to say a deal is in place, but it kind of feels like a framework is in place."

The main issues will be the TV rights and venue.

Saudi Arabia is keen to host the fight with the Principality Stadium in Cardiff the only realistic UK venue for December.

Hearn said: "The fighters will say, 'Go and tell me what's out there' and there are only three options – Wales, Saudi or Las Vegas. For me, any deal we do is likely to be a two-fight deal so wherever it is the first time, it won't be the second time."

"Whether that's one fight abroad and then back to Britain in the summer. But the fighters will want to see all the deals out there."

Fury must retain the WBC title in a third fight with Wilder, pencilled in for July 18 at the MGM Grand Garden Arena in Las Vegas.

Joshua has to defend his WBA, IBF and WBO belts against Bulgarian Kubrat Pulev (inset) on June 20 at Tottenham Hotspur Stadium.

UNHAPPY: Leko

Leko left bitter by hearing

■ by DARREN LEWIS

RACISM victim Jonathan Leko says he will think twice about reporting abuse again after being treated as though he was on trial.

The West Brom forward also criticised the FA, the PFA and the anti-racism bodies over their handling of the Kiko Casilla case.

Leeds keeper Casilla was given an eight-match ban on Friday for calling Leko a: " n" during a Championship match on September 28.

Leko, on loan at Charlton at the time, said: "I found the hearing, at which I was made to feel I had done something wrong, extremely stressful.

"It made me question whether I would be prepared to go through it all again were I on the receiving end of similar abuse in the future."

Casilla denied the charge and it took five months before an independent panel found the case proven and the FA banned him.

Leko added: "I had minimal contact from the PFA and no contact in the way of support from leading anti-racism bodies."

The PFA last night apologised to Leko and promised to review their procedures.

WAYNE ROONEY fears it could take Manchester United up to three years to be challenging for major honours again.

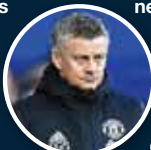

The Old Trafford legend faces his old club tonight when Derby host Ole Gunnar Solskjaer's (right) men in the FA Cup fifth round at Pride Park.

And Rooney warned United fans to be patient as the club cannot buy their way back into contention.

"It's going to take time," said United's record scorer. "It's going to take another two to three years I believe. The United fans need to be patient with what is going on and let these players try and prove themselves.

SOLSKJAER NEEDS THREE YEARS

"They need to bring some players in and get rid of some and within two or three years they have to be challenging again." United have not won the Premier League title since 2013 and trail champions-elect Liverpool by a staggering 37 points this season.

But Rooney said: "If you look at Liverpool and what they've done – and Manchester City – you're not going to just buy a team to go and challenge with them.

"Liverpool have built a team. So United have to be patient and try and build a team to challenge. "The important thing is for them to try and get into the Champions League this year."

Rooney is relishing facing United again – having lost to them twice with Everton after leaving Old Trafford in 2017 following 13 glittering years.

But he insists he WILL celebrate if he scores tonight. "Yeah, of course," he said. "My time at United, I loved every minute of it – but I'm a Derby player now."

can leave United trouble

says Reds legend
MICHAEL CARRICK

MICHAEL CARRICK has backed Wayne Rooney to thrive in his own defensive midfield role for years.

But before that he has warned his former club Manchester United that the Derby star still has the tools to hurt them in the FA Cup fifth round tonight.

Rooney lines up against the team he used to captain looking to improve on his record of having lost every game he has played against the club which he served for 13 years.

"It will be strange, I'm sure for him, playing once more against Manchester United," Carrick said. "But I'm sure he's relishing it at the same time."

"He is playing a bit deeper now. We played together in the FA Cup final in that position, when we won it in 2016."

"He was going down that route, then he went back up front again. He can adapt. He has the quality to adapt, whether he plays as a striker or midfielder."

"I am not surprised he has gone to that stage now and is doing well. It is intelligence and what comes naturally to him. He is quality. Pure quality."

"It is nice just to see him back playing well. He has had a spell away in America and in some ways you wouldn't expect him to come back and play back in England again.

■ by MATTHEW DUNN

"That was his retirement plan, going over there, but it is nice to see him back and playing well again."

Those qualities also mean Carrick expects there is plenty more to come from what has already been a long life at the highest level of football.

"From the time when he scored the goal against Arsenal for Everton - I mean he was a name before that - but that was an explosion on the scene," Carrick added.

"We're talking about young lads dealing with pressure, the press and the media."

"He almost didn't care about that and every time something was asked of him he stepped up and embraced it and grew even bigger."

"He's just an incredible talent, almost freakish in the way he could deal with things and his mentality was incredible."

"Now I'd say he is likely to go into coaching, yeah. He knows the game so well, he's intelligent on the pitch and he's gone on to lead like he did in his final years at United, as one of the older ones with me in the dressing room."

"He definitely took that role on. Therefore it really wouldn't surprise me if he stayed in the game for a long time."

Rooney is still only 34 and has several years on Carrick, who realised his own playing days were over at 37.

"I can see why some lads want to play on, regardless of where it is, but it just wasn't for me," Carrick said. "I had had enough of playing by the end."

"My career was done and I was happy with it. I think it comes when you know that you are not quite at it and you cannot quite do physically what you think you should be able to do."

"My last season, I played Huddersfield in the FA Cup and I was half a yard off and I knew that was me done."

WAYNE HAS GOT BIRD ON A HIGH

■ by JAMES NURSEY

GROWING up as a Manchester United season ticket holder, Max Bird dreamt of playing alongside idol Wayne Rooney.

Now that the former England captain is his midfield partner Bird, 19, who used to have a Rooney replica shirt as a kid, admits he has been "a bit overwhelmed".

He added: "After last season I didn't think it could get much better with Frank Lampard and Ashley Cole coming to the club."

"When Wayne signed I thought, 'One of my heroes is coming to the club, I have to try and impress him'. Hopefully I have."

"He was one of my favourites, I had his name on the back of my shirt at one time."

"I dreamt of playing with him but didn't think it would actually happen. I am very grateful and all I want to keep doing is keep impressing him, keep doing the manager proud and keep playing for this club."

Bird and Rooney will be in manager Phillip Cocu's team tonight when United visit Pride Park in the FA Cup.

Bird added: "Wayne is a big player for us and was a big player at United as well, so he is going to have a lot of attention on him, but most importantly he is an asset for our team."

"He has been in these situations before and will know how to handle them."

"We have had chats on and off the field. He helps me a lot."

"I have learned a lot from him in terms of how he plays, what I can do to help him and what he does to help me. We try to complement each other."

"He helps not just the young lads but the other players in the team."

"His attributes on the pitch help other players come out of their shell and play better."

JOSE'S
KRUL
TWISTMour pen agony
after Vorm slip

TIM KRUL made it a tale of two keepers as Tottenham went crashing out of the FA Cup to leave their season in danger of falling apart.

Norwich keeper Krul saved two spot kicks from Troy Parrott and Gedson Fernandes in a nervous shoot-out after Spurs' stand-in Michel Vorm's howler gifted the visitors a late equaliser.

Krul is renowned as a penalty specialist and he did not let his team down as the stadium feared the worst when Gedson stepped up and saw his weak effort saved.

Eric Dier and Giovani Lo Celso were on target for Spurs, Erik Lamela missed but Adam Idah, Marco Stiepermann were all on target as bottom-of-the-table Norwich inflicted a fourth straight defeat on Jose Mourinho.

Spurs started well and took the lead after 13 minutes. Norwich midfielder Mario Vrancic was booked for a foul on Giovani Lo Celso and it gave Spurs a free kick in a dangerous position.

Lo Celso put over a teasing cross,

Krul got caught in two minds about whether to come for the ball and was then stranded as Jan Vertonghen rose to head powerfully home.

You might have thought Mourinho's side would take charge but Norwich came back well and Spurs' third choice keeper Michel Vorm – making his first start in 533 days – did look rusty.

Vorm made a smart save from Emi Buendia but then horribly spilled Lukas Rupp's long range shot, the ball span behind him and the Dutch keeper was very lucky the ball did not end up in the net.

Buendia had a shot blocked at the start of the second half, Vrancic put a free kick onto the top of the net and Josip Drmic fired narrowly wide, although he looked offside.

The visitors really put Spurs under the cosh and you could feel the nerves in the stadium as Norwich took charge of the second half and the 9,000 travelling fans got behind their team.

The goal was coming for Norwich – and it eventually arrived after 78 minutes with Vorm dropping a huge clanger.

Norwich substitute Kenny McLean unleashed a 20 yard shot, Vorm spilled what should have been a straightforward catch and Drmic chased in to force home the rebound. Now it was tense and nervous. Spurs should have nicked a winner when Serge Aurier had a great chance, but he was denied by a heroic clearance from Ben Godfrey as the tie went into extra time.

Mourinho (right) had claimed most Spurs fans would not know what rookie striker Troy Parrott looked like so the loud cheer when he came on in extra time was probably designed to make a point – though he missed his penalty.

A REAL WILD RIDE

CHRIS WILDER has refused to rule Sheffield United out of the Champions League reckoning.

The Blades are closing in on one potential route to Europe after reaching the FA Cup quarter-finals with a 2-1 win at Reading on Tuesday.

Wilders' miracle workers are also only five points off the top four with a game in hand – an astonishing feat for the pre-season relegation favourites.

The United boss (right) said: "We are in a fabulous position."

"To get to 40 points at this stage of the season with 11 games to go is a great

by MIKE WALTERS

achievement from a promoted side.

"I honestly don't know where the team can take us this season."

Asked whether Champions League football at Bramall Lane next season was a pipedream, Wilder added: "As we have said, roll on to the next game."

"What we have done consistently in the Premier League, in terms of performances and results, is fantastic and I can't see them backing off."

LAZ'S JOEL GOAL CALL

VALENTINO LAZARO has backed goal-shy Joelinton to win over the doubters at Newcastle.

The striker (right) hasn't scored a Premier League goal in over six months despite the Toon Army smashing their club record to land the Brazilian.

That £40m fee is weighing heavily on his shoulders as Steve Bruce's side juggle a relegation scrap and a run to the FA Cup quarter-finals.

Lazaro, on loan from Inter Milan, knows Joelinton well from their time together in the Bundesliga and says the big striker brings more than just

by DAVE ARMITAGE

goals. The Austrian midfielder said: "A striker is judged by his goals but he's working so hard."

"He is helping us in a lot of ways, so we really need Joelinton up front."

"I have known him for years. When you play the long balls, he is always there."

"He is very tall. He can secure the ball. He is working and impressing defensively as well. With the runs he makes it creates a lot of space."

"He is definitely bringing a lot to the team."

RIC OF TIME!

RICARDO PEREIRA stepped up to head Leicester into the quarter-finals with a late winner and finally see off dogged Birmingham.

The Premier League side were in danger of fresh cup frustration after being dumped out of the Carabao Cup semi-finals by Aston Villa.

They were unconvincing for most of the first half but their dominant second-half display paid off eight minutes from time when Pereira headed in his fourth of the season from Marc Albrighton's cross.

It was the club's first win in six games in all competitions after a loss of form.

Despite remaining third in the table, Foxes boss Brendan Rodgers admitted his side were "suffering" and low on confidence in the build up.

It prompted him go with a strong side to get a morale-boosting win as he made just three changes from the loss at bottom club Norwich.

Wilfred Ndidi, Demarai Gray and Albrighton came in and the continuity

Pereira leaves it late to pinch win

by JAMES NURSEY

helped ensure Leicester made a strong start with Rodgers anxious for his side to improve their recent form.

The hosts came flying out of the traps as James Maddison put an early shot over and Ben Chilwell had an effort deflected narrowly wide in a bright opening first 10 minutes.

But Birmingham, who arrived at the King Power unbeaten in 13 games in all competitions, weathered the storm and looked dangerous on the break.

Kerim Mrabti had a shot deflected wide before frontman Lukas Jutkiewicz shot straight at Kasper Schmeichel. The former Burnley man had another effort on goal in the 19th minute but he flashed a low left-foot effort wide.

Pep Clotet's underdogs carried a threat going forward while staying in a disciplined shape which made them hard to break down.

Brum keeper Lee Camp did well to palm away a Maddison cross after the England ace tricked his way into the box and that was the only effort on target he had to deal with as the visitors looked comfortable.

The half illustrated why Leicester, who were without top scorer Jamie Vardy, had not scored in three Premier League games.

They did start to turn the screw after the break, though, as Kelechi Iheanacho shot straight at Camp with an effort on the turn after good work from Maddison before the Foxes No.10 curled a right-foot free-kick around the wall and into the side netting.

Maddison went even closer in the 68th minute with a rising left-foot shot from outside the box which hit the bar.

Iheanacho then had the ball in the back of the net but his effort was chalked out for offside.

Pereira broke the deadlock in the 82nd minute after Albrighton beat Kristian Pedersen to chip over a cross.

LEICESTER (4-1-4-1): Schmeichel 6; Pereira 8, Evans 6, Soyuncu 6, Chilwell 6; Ndidi 6 (Tielemans 61, 6); Albrighton 7, Praet 6, Maddison 8 (Choudhury 84), Gray 5 (Barnes 66, 6); Iheanacho 6. Subs: Justin, Morgan, Ward, Perez.

FA CUP FIFTH ROUND

THREE-SY

THRILLY BILLY: Gilmour with his man of the match award and (above) battling Maguire

MAGUIRE SCRAP FIRED UP BILLY

BILLY GILMOUR claims getting bullied by Harry Maguire helped toughen him up to take down Liverpool.

Chelsea's 18-year-old sensation was the star of the show as Frank Lampard's side sent the Reds crashing out of the FA Cup on Tuesday.

But Gilmour reckons a tussle with Manchester United's Maguire, during his side's Carabao Cup defeat in October, taught him how to handle himself on the big stage.

The Scotland Under-21 star said: "Obviously, he's going to try to bully young ones and that's where I need to learn.

"I have to be stronger and I've been working on that. That was a learning curve definitely, when he got me up in the box.

"I remember that really well. Basically it was - I'm a wee guy - pushing me off and

■ by PAUL BROWN grabbing me by the throat.

"But I won't let that happen again. It was a lesson."

The midfielder, who has now made six appearances for Chelsea, ran the show against Liverpool.

He got stuck into tackles, bamboozled Fabinho with a wonderful piece of skill, and even bossed his older team-mates.

Gilmour said: "I'm not here to be quiet. I need to tell folk to get into position."

The teenager, who was watched by Scotland boss Steve Clarke on Tuesday, could be set for more action with Jorginho suspended and Mateo Kovacic joining N'Golo Kante on the injured list.

Poached from the Rangers academy for an initial fee of just £500,000 in 2017, Gilmour signed a new four-year contract in September.

Van Dijk defiant

VIRGIL VAN DIJK claims winning the title for the first time in 30 years will ensure a magical season for Liverpool - even if it's the only trophy they win this term.

The Reds crashed out of the FA Cup at Chelsea but still have a 22-point lead in the Premier League.

Asked about 'just' winning the title, Van Dijk (inset) said: "Just end up with the Premier League? 'Just'? It's just a small thing is it? We also

■ by PAUL BROWN won the Super Cup and the World Cup of teams, so..."

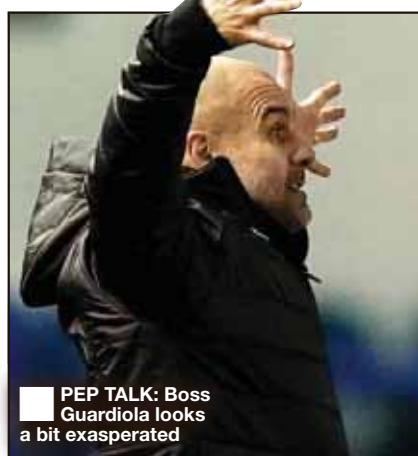

The defender also challenged team-mates to make up for the absence of injured captain Jordan Henderson.

Van Dijk added: "Obviously we can't deny that Jordan has been outstanding this year, very important for us, and he is our captain.

"But we have quality players all over the pitch so everyone else has to step up."

HE'S DONE IT AGAIN: Aguero fires in the winner

PEP TALK: Boss Guardiola looks a bit exasperated

MANCHESTER CITY'S relentless obsession with all things silver showed no signs of fading at Hillsborough.

A second-half goal from Sergio Aguero was enough to see off a stubborn Sheffield Wednesday side and book City's place in the FA Cup quarter-finals.

It was anything but vintage from the holders, but that won't bother Pep Guardiola as his men continue their charge towards another trophy treble.

Having pocketed the Carabao Cup already, Guardiola is determined to go on and defend this one, as well as conquer Europe to somehow overshadow main rivals Liverpool.

But it still took a solitary strike from Aguero, his 23rd of the season, to clip the Owls' wings on a night when Garry Monk's men showed plenty of Sheffield steel to defy their recent league woes.

The Owls, without Cup-tied duo

■ by JEREMY CROSS

Connor Wickham and Josh Windass, were looking to reach their first quarter-final in almost 25 years.

But Monk's outfit were huge underdogs following a woeful run of one win in nine league games to leave them languishing in 12th place in the Championship and still facing a possible points deduction for alleged breaches of FFP rules.

Results had left such a bad taste in the mouths of home fans that the game was nowhere near a sell-out, despite this being a visit from the English champions and favourites to win the Champions League this season.

pretty drastic happens between now and then, I'll be there.

"I'm still not back training with the first team but I'm working hard in the gym, I'm getting stronger all the time. We're talking a few more weeks and I'll be playing again."

"I don't want to make a prediction for which game I might be back but I am hoping somewhere between the start and middle of April."

The tournament kicks off on June 12 with England's first game against Croatia at Wembley two days later.

Kane had surgery on a hamstring tear he suffered on New Year's Day and Southgate said: "As far as I am concerned he is on schedule."

Southgate has also hinted at an England recall for Chris Smalling.

The Manchester United star has been a hit on loan at Roma this season but he hasn't played for England for two-and-a-half years.

Southgate said: "I've never ruled anybody out. I think that would be wrong."

"By praising others for certain attributes, there was criticism for Chris. It was my fault and it was unfair on him."

PHIL NEVILLE has told his players not to dwell on what might have been when England face the United States in the SheBelieves Cup tonight.

The Lionesses suffered a heartbreaking 2-1 defeat in the 2019 World Cup semi.

England were left to rue what could have been after captain Steph Houghton missed a late penalty and USA later lifted the trophy.

But Neville said: "We haven't thought about the semi-final. That's what we said to the players."

"Ultimately, it was a toonail, it was a missed penalty away from being something really special."

"That game is gone. This is a new team, a new season with a new clear direction where we are going."

Aguero keeps Guardiola in hunt for trophy treble

Sheffield-born goalkeeper Joe Wildsmith, who made his first start since August 2018 and just his third appearance in almost two years.

Guardiola, meanwhile, made six changes from the side that started at Wembley last weekend, with Phil Foden returning to the bench to sit alongside Kevin De Bruyne, while Riyad Mahrez and Gabriel Jesus were both recalled.

City had not lost an FA Cup tie since Wigan - then in League One - beat them in February 2018.

And there seemed little chance of a similar shock here, even though the Owls threatened first when Jacob Murphy fizzed a shot just wide on six minutes.

City began to get into their stride and Aguero fluffed a simple chance following Benjamin Mendy's cross.

Jesus then headed wide and Mahrez blazed high over the bar, before Aguero picked out Jesus with a sublime ball but the Brazilian failed to control it with just Wildsmith to beat.

City's frustration continued when Nicolas Otamendi headed Mahrez's free-kick against the bar and John Stones' header landed on the roof of the net. It took Guardiola's men almost 50 minutes to have a shot on target and when it came from Aguero, Wildsmith wasn't troubled.

Mendy hammered a shot against the woodwork before Wildsmith made a smart save to keep out Bernardo's drive.

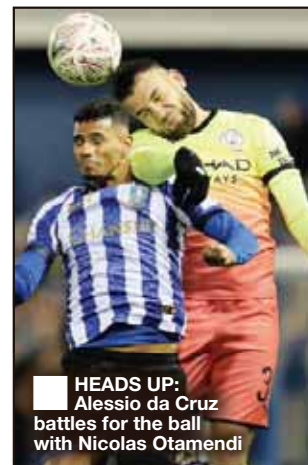

But the home resistance was finally broken on 53 minutes when Mendy fed Aguero, whose sharp turn and strike went through Wildsmith before dropping into the back of the net.

City piled forward in search of a second but the Owls dug deep to annoy Guardiola as his side limped into the last eight.
