Every corner of the country

This year's Resort Guide focuses on 10 of our nation's most popular camping regions, with each featuring a list of roughly 16 resorts in their respective areas. If you're close to one of these camping spots, your next destination choice should be easy. Naturally, it's impossible to include every campsite in the country in this year's guide, but we still offer a substantial selection to make 2024 one of your best camping years yet. Plus, there are no fewer than 20 new resorts that haven't appeared in past editions of the Resort Guide.

The map at the beginning of each region helps you locate where the resorts are, and for your convenience, we've also included a distance scale. It's a new addition and a handy guideline if you want to know exactly how far you need to drive to your next campsite. Just keep in mind that there are often more than one route between spots – especially in a place like Dinokeng – so we might be off by a kilometre or three here and there.

We've chatted with the staff at each resort in the guide to verify contact details, photos and amenities, and to find out what's new or changed. Some campsites, for example, have refurbished their bathrooms, moved taps or added paving, while others now offer WiFi for the first time.

A good number of new resorts have been included to ensure the guide's content is not merely a repetition of previous years. While we haven't visited all of them yet, we've double-checked the information. We clearly indicate if we haven't camped at a resort ourselves, but for those we have, we include a reference to a back issue for you to do more thorough research.

Whether you prefer the Cederberg, Overberg or Drakensberg – or perhaps the Lowveld or Bushveld – there's nothing stopping you from exploring. What about the Kalahari, the South Coast, Garden Route or Magalies?

And when it comes to Dinokeng, we can almost guarantee there's a new resort you haven't been to yet.

See you at the campsites! •

RIVERS END
Where life begins

The farm borders the Walker Bay nature reserve, and the trails through the reserve leads you within 8 km to the most beautiful beaches, dunes and a fisherman's paradise.

The newly established camping areas have views over wetlands, 'fynbos', mountains, lagoon and ocean, respectively.

Ablution facilities are situated close to the wetland area, but for the other areas guest will have to provide their own facilities.

Canos and Wind buggy are for hire, and beach hikes can be arranged. Feel free to bring along hiking shoes and mountain bikes to be able to explore the pristine fynbos and beautiful surroundings.
