Driving into Yellow Sands, you'll be bowled over by its unrivalled setting, literally metres from the beach and mouth of the Kwelera River – a holiday at the sea couldn't get any better! Large, grassy open caravan stands, some with tall shady trees, ensure your stay is as comfy as can be. The beach is where you will want to spend most of your time, but if you'd prefer some less sandy bathing, the resort boasts a newly built swimming pool. The town of East London is about 25 minutes away and the breathtaking Wild Coast, accessed via the Kei River Pont a few kilometres up the coast. There is a fully stocked Super Spar just 10 minutes from the resort that also has fuel, gas, ice, doctors, bottle store, butcher and chemist available. Security at Yellow Sands is a priority: patrolling guards add that extra touch. The resort is constantly upgrading and improving every year. Where better to spend a relaxing holiday than at a family-owned and run resort that's established itself over six decades?

Tsendze, the Tsonga word for “tsendzeleka” or “to ramble around like someone lost in the bush” is the newest, rustic fenced camp site without electricity, addition to the Kruger National Park. Located approximately 7 km south of Mopani Rest Camp, the campsites are laid out around stands of ancient and beautiful Leadwood, Mopane and Apple Leaf trees.

The Tsendze River and Nshawu Creek, run through this area that is known for the large buffalo herds and many elephant bulls that occur here.

The idyllic Letaba Rest Camp is situated on a sweeping bend of the Letaba River, midway between the southern and northern boundaries of the Kruger National Park. The name means “river of sand”, and the sandy riverbed is an excellent location for game viewing, particularly elephant, which thrive in the area. Letaba is a green oasis in the surrounding mopane veld. At night the stars overlook a symphony of sounds. Owls, nightjars, frogs, fruit bats, crickets and cicadas all vie to be heard.

Balule is the Tsonga word for the Olifants River. This camp is one of the best places for guests to experience nature first hand. Balule is situated in the centre of the Park, just south of Olifants Camp, close to the Olifants River. With only the most basic of facilities and no electricity, a low fence is the only barrier that separates you from the wilderness, resulting in a true back to basics experience. It is this unique wilderness feel of the camp that makes it a firm favourite with visitors who want to get away from it all.

Satara is situated in an excellent game viewing area, with the bush relatively open and the animals plentiful and diverse. The camp itself has a rustic charm, with the bulk of the accommodation set out in a series of circles. Satara is well wooded and the bird-life is prolific. At night the clink of fruit bats is fused with the chirping of cicadas and crickets. The calls of owls and nightjars add to the symphony that is punctuated intermittently by the whoop of hyena, the screech of jackal and the roars of lion.

It is also home to a larger percentage of the Kruger National Park's total rhino population. Come and experience humans living in harmony with nature. A sharp contrast between the wilderness and the world out there.

When the world was still young, molten rock forced its way through the earth's crust and solidified to form the spectacular granite outcrops where Pretoriuskop Rest Camp is now nestled. The impressive granite dome known as "Shabeni Hill" is not far from the camp, which is found in the south-western corner of the Kruger National Park. We pride ourselves in constantly improving designs and manufacturing techniques in order to keep our product range current and practical. At Gobi-X our staff come first and we do everything in our power to provide ongoing training and growth paths in order to ensure we create a happy and efficient workforce. This pays off when you, our customer, get to fit and use products that have been built with great care.

Our product testing all takes place in the harshest areas of Southern Africa and this testing occurs on a regular basis. Some of our rear bumpers also undergo SANS 1501 testing to ensure they are up to industry standards.

3D INFRARED SCANNING

Gobi-X uses the latest in 3D Infrared scanning technology when engineering their full range of offroad accessories. The three dimensional real-time data created by scanning ensures a very high level of accuracy. This ensures our products can be easily replicated to high standards, which then fits like a glove during the installation phase of the product.

SOLIDWORKS DESIGN

Once our design Team scans the vehicles and gathers all the relevant 3D data points; this information is transferred to our Solidworks CAD design software. This is where the concept is born and then refined into a prototype unit! We then break down the design into individual components which are ordered and assembled for vehicle fitment.

This software is additionally utilized for our detailed fitting instructions for our marketing material.

LASER CUTTING AND CNC BENDING

Gobi-X Expedition Gear relies on more than 3200 unique components(2024) to construct our current product range. These components must be precisely accurate for every build, this is achieved through laser cutting and CNC bending processes. Our materials are of premium quality and come with traceable specification certification.

WELDING AND GRINDING

Currently all our welding and grinding is done by hand. Our highly skilled Team uses the latest in mig and tig welding technology and receives in house training regularly. We are proud to say we have a combined 140 years of welding experience and 60 years held by our grinding/finishing Team.

ISO 9001 CERTIFIED

Gobi-X Expedition Gear is ISO 9001 certified which ensures we keep to the international standards for quality management systems and quality assurance as set out by ISO. Applying these processes within our business ensures high levels of efficiency and quality within Gobi-X.

POWDER COATING

After welding and grinding all our steel items get sent through our inhouse powder coating plant. The pre-treatment process is critical when it comes to any form of metal coating processes. We employ a heated seven-step treatment tank cleaning process to prepare our material before applying the epoxy coating.

The cleaning process includes degreasing, acid etching and then a motor industry grade phosphate coating. Only then are the products ready to be sent for coating.

The epoxy coating powder is exceptionally durable providing our engineered products with superior protection against the elements.
